From the Pastor’s Heart

Let's say you've planned an event at your house and invited all your friends. The day arrives and you wait patiently for them to come. But you stand at your front door alone. Waiting. When you call to ask friends if they're coming, they all have excuses: We're too tired. The games you've planned sound boring. We don't like the type of music you'll be playing. We don't like the type of food you're serving. We don't like some of the people who'll be attending.

The church is God's house, and we're invited to an event here every Sabbath. Imagine how He must feel if we use excuses rather than attend. There are many reasons why some chose to skip church. This morning, Angelo Simorangkir, one of our WWU Student Interns, will be talking about one very sad reason: we see the flawed people who hurt us, rather than a flawless God who welcomes us. Perhaps we've forgotten to turn our eyes upon Jesus and look full in His wonderful face. After all, we have come to worship Him.

~ Pastor Nancy
